

Toot & Puddle

Contributed by The Diva
Friday, 24 November 2006
Last Updated Friday, 24 November 2006

The Diva's review of
Toot & Puddle: I'll Be Home For Christmas(2006)

Rated NR; 44 minutes
Genre: Kids/Animation/Educational

WARNING - SPOILERS BELOW.
The Digest
(Official press release):

Toot & Puddle, two adorable pigs that live in the peaceful country setting of Woodcock Pocket and are best friends, are splashing onto the holiday movie scene with their first-ever full-length animated feature that is guaranteed to become a classic! Based on the best-selling book series from Holly Hobbie, Toot & Puddle leap out of the pages onto video in Toot & Puddle: I'll Be Home For Christmas. Fans of the award-winning Toot & Puddle franchise will be able to enjoy this full-length film produced by National Geographic on December 5, 2006.

It's almost time for Christmas at Woodcock Pocket and Puddle is at home baking fruitcake, making paper chains, and decorating the house and tree for holiday fun. But Toot--wouldn't you know!--is stranded in a winter storm far away. How will Puddle's best friend get back home from Scotland by Christmas Eve? The answer involves a lot of determination, a little bit of luck and some unexpected help from another mysterious holiday traveler.

The Dish

I'd never heard of Toot and Puddle, but I am so happy that we were given the opportunity to discover them. I wasn't sure what we were going to be presented with and was pleasantly surprised with the learning experience we had. My two nieces (ages 7 and 5) and my own baby girl (aged 3), loved learning about the Scottish Christmas, and other worldwide holiday traditions. Plus the charters are just adorable. We are headed to Barnes and Noble to pick up the books and learn more about the Toot& Puddle and their extended family and friends.

The DVD

DVD SPECS

Number of Discs: 1

Languages: English
Subtitles: French and Spanish

The Directive

What a cute story. I hope there are more to come.

3BC Ratings

Give a toot-toot for Toot and Pudle

Copyright Kamal "The Diva" Larsuel-Ulbricht, 2006
EMAIL: thediva@3blackchicks.com
ICQ: 8690410
<http://www.3blackchicks.com/>

```
document.write("");
document.write("");
```