The Digest

From the official Press Release:

When the Fairy Godmother's magic wand falls into the wrong hands, the glass slipper no longer fits Cinderella! Instead, her evilstepsister Anastasia is slated to marry Prince Charming! But with her loyal mice friends, Gus and Jaq by her side, Cinderella is determined to make things right again.

The story starts one year after Cinderella and Prince Charming have been happily married, when the evil Stepmother steals the Fairy Godmother's wand! In her very wrong hands, the Stepmother turns back time, and transforms the glass slipper so that it fits her jealous daughter Anastasia instead. It's up to Cinderella and her friends to un-do the Stepmother's plans and get things back as they should be.

The Dish

After 4 viewings, I have a grasp of the movie, but NO energy to right a review, so I just used the press release. Sorry! It is a testament to my motherhood that I watched this movie 4 times. In a row. On the day we got it. My child should never question my love and devotion to her. Anyway, So, what would happen if the glass slipper didn't fit Cindi? Answering that question kept my daughter glued to the television and that is good enough for me. But this isn't just about righting wrongs, this story has a great lesson in forgiveness and acceptance.
